Should not be limited to drug deaths but drug policy in general, including treatment and support

Financial Implications

Q13. Any new law can have a financial impact which would affect individuals, businesses, the public sector, or others. What financial impact do you think this proposal could have if it became law?

no overall change in costs

Please explain the reasons for your answer, including who you would expect to feel the financial impact of the proposal, and if there are any ways you think the proposal could be delivered more cost-effectively.

Will obviously have costs to establish but will save money in others - for example by freeing up police/NHS resources, so I'd say it likely pays for itself or even saves money overall

Equalities

Q14. Any new law can have an impact on different individuals in society, for example as a result of their age, disability, gender re-assignment, marriage and civil partnership status, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex or sexual orientation.

What impact could this proposal have on particular people if it became law? If you do not have a view skip to next question.

Please explain the reasons for your answer and if there are any ways you think the proposal could avoid negative impacts on particular people.

Largely most beneficial for impoverished communities (as the areas with highest drug deaths); but beneficial to all those groups and society as a whole

Sustainability
